ENTERTAIN LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid society of the West Glendale M. E. church was very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. S. A. Davis, 525 South Central avenue, at a tea Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. W. A. Mulligan and Mrs. Davis About forty-five members and friends were present. A short program was given. Miss Genevieve Mulligan, in her charming manner, gave two pleasing numbers on the violin; Mrs. Blyth gave two very enjoyable readings; Miss Nell Hilbert, who is a talented young musician, gave two beautiful selections on the piano; Mrs. A. B. Morrison gave a very appropriate reading, describing the workings, hardships and great achievements of the "Dear Ladies' Aid." Mrs. Davis announced in an original little rhyme the dollar social soon to be given by the society. Tea was served after the program and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in conversation and getting acquainted and all reported having had a very enjoyable social time. Out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Jones of Pasadena, Mrs. J. E. Peck of Calexico, Mrs. A. W. Blyth of Los Angeles and Mrs. Ward of Hollywood

GARDEN SOCIETY RECEPTION

The reception to be held this evening by the president of the Glendale Garden society to the members and friends of that organization promises to be unusually pleasant. The reception will be held at 1222 Milford street, the residence of Mrs. Nanno Woods, from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. Mrs. James Pearson, Miss Olive Williams and Mrs. Francis Henry will preside over the punch bowl. The silver cup kindly offered by Mrs. Walter Ross for the most artistic arrangement of any flowers in a bowl or case, to be competed for on Saturday of this week at the Free Floral Exhibit, will be on view. Dainty Dorothy McGinnis will dance the Cecil Bruner Rose dance. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends or would-be friends to attend this enjoyable, informal gathering.

C. OF C. EXHIBIT

WELCOME LOCAL PRODUCTS TO SUPPLEMENT SAN DIEGO DISPLAY

Owing to delays in shipment from San Diego exposition the part of that exhibit assigned by the supervisors of Los Angeles county to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce is just arriving, and it all will not be here till early next week. Some of it will require special packing, which Commissioner Charles L. Wilson says he cannot sooner give the personal attention required. But when all installed it will be worth seeing. We wish also to make place for special exhibits of things grown or otherwise produced in and around Glendale. Those who offer such exhibits will be publicly given credit therefor; and their exhibits will be well cared for. According to the nature of the exhibit so offered it will be placed on a stand or in a locked glass case protected from dust. Anyone having something particularly attractive for any reason would help advertise Glendale by placing it in this exhibit, even as a loan. A few local scenic photographs would be very acceptable; so would any pictures taken years ago to show the earlier homes and other places where now are large buildings. If the people of Glendale will co-operate with the secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in this matter of decorating the hall so as to make it most attractive to visitors it will be a good work, highly appreciated. It is a citizen's proposition. Why not make it one in every way worth while. We have about forty seats and plenty of cool, fresh Glendale water, and a rest room that is comfortable, even if the exhibit is not yet unpacked. Our welcome will be given to everybody.

WALT. LENOIR CHURCH,
Secretary G. C. C.

ST. PATRICK CARD PARTY

The Thursday Afternoon club of Tropico have issued invitations for a St. Patrick's card party to be given at the home of Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, 805 South Central avenue, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Five hundred will be played and Mrs. Richardson will welcome all the ladies of the vicinity who enjoy this game. The party is for the benefit of the club. The Morosco Photo company is to take a night picture of the Richardson home on Friday for one of its plays and the city of Glendale is preparing to illuminate the front of the house with electric lights for the scene. All the ladies attending the party on Friday afternoon will receive complimentary tickets to the play in which the Richardson home will be shown. The same company, of which Geo. Beban is the leading actor, took a picture of the Richardson home last March for the play "Pasquala," which has been shown in Japan and Australia as well as all over the east, so many people in other places have had a glimpse of Glendale's charming homes as well as of the pretty surrounding country through the medium of the moving pictures.

DELIGHTFUL TEA

Mrs. Julius Kranz was hostess Wednesday afternoon to a few of her friends at a delightful tea at her home, 1317 N. Brand boulevard. The spacious rooms where the guests were entertained had a decidedly spring-like appearance with large sprays of peach blossoms, bouquets of jonquils and branches of fragrant green and white foliage most beautifully arranged. After a most happy afternoon in congenial surroundings the hostess served a dainty two-course tea.

The guests were Mrs. John Hyde Braly, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mrs. William Blodgett Crocker, Mrs. T. A. Siegs of Marshalltown, Iowa; Mrs. Robert M. Jackson, Mrs. Frederick Baker, Mrs. Salo Desky, Mrs. George T. Holman, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. Calvin Whiting, Mrs. Fred Pigg and Miss Katherine J. Young of Long Beach.

Mrs. Kranz will be at home to friends at similar affairs at intervals during the coming spring.

FREE FLORAL EXHIBIT

There will be a free flower show at 318 S. Brand boulevard, next door to the postoffice, Saturday, March 17, under the auspices of the Glendale Garden society. There will be three special prizes for children who bring in the most beautiful arrangement of wild flowers. Children must bring vase or bowl to put the flowers in. Flowers must be brought in Friday afternoon before 5 o'clock or Saturday morning before 10.

The new Rosslyn hotel was not damaged, as the building is fireproof. It is estimated that the damage to the old building and the stores on the ground floor is from $50,000 to $100,000. It is not known how the fire started.

HOSPITAL OPENING

RELAX HOME AND HOSPITAL HOLDS OPEN HOUSE TODAY

The Relax Home and Hospital is holding an opening reception this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock and this evening from 7:30 to 10. The location of this new rest home and hospital is 525 North San Fernando boulevard, Tropico, in what was formerly known as the Mission hospital. Mrs. Grace M. Rottner is the superintendent and Dr. B. L. Baker, who has had considerable experience along this line in the north, is the house physician. In this ideal location and climate and with a building so well adapted to its uses this new institution expects to make a popular rest home for those who need to relax and regain health. There will be two entirely separate departments, one for those who need to "let go" and rest from the strain and stress of life for a brief while and another for those in need of surgical treatment. The building is so constructed that the two wings of the hospital can be as completely separated as if they were different institutions. The new management invites the public to come and view the plans made for the good work this institution hopes to accomplish and to get acquainted with them and their purposes.

CARNIVAL OF STATES

The second annual Carnival of States is scheduled to come off at Long Beach on Saturday, March 31st, 1917.

Great interest is shown in the event by representatives of the various states who will enter floats in the grand pageant and many wonderful and elaborate effects have been planned by the committees in charge. Prizes will be given for first, second and third best floats in the state division, besides more prizes for best entries in the civic and fraternal divisions.

In the afternoon a grand interscholastic track and field meet will be held at the Poly High school grounds, which promises to be the biggest event of its kind ever seen on the coast.

Then there will be special attractions and free entertainment on tap all day long and half the night, with music by the municipal and visiting bands, incuding a big time on the "Pike."

Altogether Long Beach is going to spread herself on March 31st in a way that will be long remembered by all who are fortunate enough to visit this attractive beach city on this eventful day. Don't miss it, get there some way and have the time of your life.

COLORADO POTATO KING

Eugene Grubb, Colorado potato king, brought to Glendale through the Glendale Garden Society efforts, proved a great success yesterday afternoon. The lecture was held in the High School auditorium at 2:15 and was a regular assembly of the school pupils and faculty. Many of the public were also present. Upon Mr. Grubb's arrival he was welcomed by some 20 to 30 men who had traveled from afar to meet him, several ranchers from Lankershim, Santa Ana and other places. The out-of-doors practical demonstration created much interest and was largely attended.

GLENDALE WATER RATE

At the Grubb lecture yesterday in the High School Mr. Harry Lynch, Glendale city engineer, made a most important statement. Last week the rates for water were lowered from 3 cents per 100 cubic feet to 2 cents. This gives Glendale the cheapest water on the Pacific coast. So irrigate all you need, fellow citizens, don't stint on the water. It's cheap. Grow all the vegetables you can. Turn your back yard and the vacant lots into profit-yielding spaces, for you have the cheapest water anywhere. Tell all your L. A. friends who are paying 7 cents for their water that here in Glendale we have pure mountain water at only 2 cents. Hurrah for Glendale. Be a booster.

THEATER PARTY

Clarence E. Krinbill entertains a group of his Glendale piano pupils at the Lyric club concert at Trinity auditorium tonight.

The young ladies who will be his guests are Anabel McClellan, Aileen Preeman, Lois Webb, Hazel and Anna Mae Flower. Mrs. J. B. McClellan will chaperone the party.

AT STATE CAPITAL

LEGISLATORS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES—GOVERNOR JOHNSON RESIGNS

SACRAMENTO, March 15.—The legislators are getting more mail on the anti-vivisection and anti-trading stamp bills than on any other proposed laws. Thousands of postcards, letters and telegrams are pouring into the capitol urging the lawmakers to vote down the Chandler bill which would license trading stamps out of existence. And this mass of mail may bring results.

For instance, Senator Stuckenbruck of San Joaquin county, says: "I am practically pledged to vote for the Chandler anti-trading stamp bill and I had been given to understand that most of the Stockton merchants and most of the consumers were in favor of it. But I am being fairly swamped with letters, telegrams and petitions from Stockton consumers and retail stores urging me to vote against the bill. I have received more than 600 cards, each signed by a Stockton consumer, urging me to vote against the bill, 16 telegrams and as many letters from retail storekeepers, and only five letters in favor of the bill. Now I don't want to vote to force this bill down the throats of my constituents."

The high cost of living was troubling the California legislature as far back as 1909, according to a circular distributed among the legislators by the state fish and game commission. This circular, used by the commission in its campaign to prevent shrimp fishing on the Marin shore of San Francsco bay, relates how the senate in 1909 appointed a special committe to investigate the high cost of living, and that this committee reported that the shrimp fishermen on the Marin shore had been responsible to some extent for the high prices because the nets used in shrimp fishing had meshes so small that young fish couldn't escape from them and "tons and tons of these young fish were thrown on the beach."

Hiram Johnson resigned his office as governor of California at noon today to become United States senator. The resignation was handed to Secretary of State Frank Jordan who then prepared a commission for William Douglas Stephens, California's new chief executive. A joint session of the senate and house of representatives was called in the assembly room at noon for a fitting ceremonial on the occasion of Johnson's retirement. United States Senator-elect Johnson is expected to leave soon for Washington, D. C., to attend the special session of congress called for April 16. It was the calling of the special session which occasioned Johnson's resignation from the gubernatorial chair at this time. Until the special session was called, it had been believed he would remain in office until the legislature adjourned. William D. Stephens, lieutenant governor, and who has endorsed the policies of Governor Johnson, automatically became governor and the issuance of a commission by the secretary of state was a mere matter of form. Arthur H. Breed, Oakland millionaire, virtually becomes lieutenant governor upon the resignation of Johnson as governor. Breed is president pro tem of the state senate and the advancement of Stephens to the governorship puts Breed next in line. Although he had made no announcement up to the time of Johnson's resignation, Governor Stephens is expected to follow closely the program of his predecessor in all departments.

GLENDALE FORD AGENCY

The Ford Agency in Glendale, of which Jesse Smith is the manager, is doing all possible to give service to the public. An unusually large stock of accessories have been secured, and are arranged in a room built especially for this department of the Ford agency. How convenient it is for users of Ford cars to get parts from a local dealer. It is just such enterprise as is exhibited by Mr. Smith that makes Glendale a more desirable trading place.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

Tomorrow, Friday, afternoon at 3 o'clock the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mark's church will hold a meeting in the church to which all the ladies of the church and congregation are invited. At 4:00 p. m. evening prayer and meditation.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1917

THE JAPANESE CONQUEST OF AMERICAN OPINION

There has recently come from the press a volume that every patriotic American citizen should read. This is "The Japanese Conquest of American Opinion" by Montaville Flowers, who is well known on the lecture platform throughout the United States. We are apt to speak of the Japanese problem without knowing exactly what it is. Mr. Flowers defines it as Japan's demand for the removal of restrictions on immigration, all the rights of naturalization, American citizenship and intermarriage with the white race, the overthrow of all anti-Asiatic land legislation in the western states, the acquisition of these lands and all that follows. Shall we vote to comply with these demands? That constitutes the Japanese problem that this generation is being forced to work out.

The author's explanation of the wonderful organization for the disseminating of Japanese propaganda in this country is amazing. The Japanese Society of New York, whose members number both Japanese and Americans, and the Federal Council of Churches are two of the most thoroughly organized societies for the spread of Japanese principles. These bodies have the same heads and are managed so subtly that many of the members do not know that they are committed to a campaign to give the Japanese the full rights of citizenship and all that that implies.

Mr. Flowers says that the Japanese problem is vital to the entire nation, yet the fight centers in California for the reason that of the 95,000 Japanese in the United States, 65,000 of them are in California. When he comes to this country the Oriental first touches the shores of California and as the climatic conditions and industries resemble those of his own country he remains here and California has been made the picket line of the American continent before the arriving oriental hosts.

Below are some of the important facts brought out in this book:

The Japanese are and always have been aliens. They have never been given the right to vote. This status of theirs was long ago fixed by national laws and court decisions of the United States. It is among the most essential powers of the sovereignty of nations that each may fix the terms and conditions of citizenship and that right has never been in dispute among nations. It is the attribute of sovereignty of any nation to exclude from its borders a citizen of any other nation in the world. The Supreme Court decided in numerous cases that it is the inherent sovereign right of any nation to exclude from its boundaries any nation that cannot be assimilated and to make such discriminations as may seem proper.

The constitution of the state of California contains this clause: "The presence of foreigners who may not become citizens of the United States is dangerous to the well being of the state and the legislature shall discourage the immigration of all such aliens by all means within its powers."

The first conflict between California and the Japanese came in 1906. The Mikado backed up with sharp and threatening vigor the demands of his subjects in California that the schools be opened to the Japanese. This appeal to the national government won the case for Japan. An international agreement known as the Gentlemen's agreement was entered into, Japan to be allowed her whole contention in regard to the use of the public schools of California and in return to limit the number of laborers to whom she would give passports to come to the United States. Japan learned two things in this conflict: that she could overturn the ruling of a state by an appeal to the national government, and that this country is vast and the masses of the east are ignorant of conditions in the west and supercilious in their opinion of the west.

Japan contends for the right for her subjects to own land in California because the California law is inconsistent and violates the treaty of 1911, an argument used by many people who do not know what the treaty of 1911 is. In this treaty there is no mention of ownership of land. Japan interprets the treaty negatively, it does not forbid the owning of land in the United States by Japanese.

We permit aliens, drawn to these shores by selfish and economic motives, to come and live among us without challenge. We permit them to assault our institutions, insult our officials and preach anarchy and, as President Wilson said, "pour the poison of disloyalty into the arteries of our nation." Aliens may come among us and continue their old standards of living. But if you go to Japan you will find a national code, complete and clear cut. It defines everything you may do and everything you may not do. And one of the things you may not do is to own land in Japan.

Japan asks us to arbitrate the question of her right to own land in California. Arbitrate the right to own our own soil, the question on which the sovereignty of our nation rests.

The Japan Times, the official organ of the government says: "We demand the principle of equal treatment of all aliens resident in the United States." Japan does not do this herself. She discriminates against the whites and the Chinese and her hatred of the negro is well known. In China she demands rights above other nations.

The campaign has three elements: First, to discredit the people of California. Second, to play upon American sentiment. The Japanese have learned that the American people respond very quickly to such terms as "fair play," "equal rights," "land of opportunity," "brotherhood of men," and like terms. Third, the very thoroughly organized propaganda.

A very significant fact is this: Those who are most vitally interested in giving the Japanese the full rights of American citizenship are those who are fighting adequate preparedness for the defense of this country.

One argument that is often used against California's attitude on the Japanese question is that it is unchristian. "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth" (Acts. 17.26), is a text many times used in support of this argument. But advocates of this principle neglect to quote the remainder of the text, "and hath determined the times before appointed and the bounds of their habitation." The Japanese makes an appeal for universal brotherhood but fails to give the white man an equal opportunity in Japan and spurns the thought of equality and brotherhood with the negro.

Japan adopts the industrial arts of Christian nations rapidly but is slow to adopt Christianity as a religion. Mr. Flowers declares that Japan will never adopt Christianity as the national religion.

Dr. Elliott of Harvard who was sent to the Orient to study the question of mixture of races says, "The experience of the east teaches that the intermarriage of races which are distinctly unlike is undesirable because the progeny from such mixtures is, as a rule, inferior to each of the parent stocks both physically and morally, a fact which has been demonstrated on a large scale." The first effect of interbreeding between races is to destroy the soul of the race. The Japanese are not assimilable with the white race and it is a condition of our harmonious and fruitful national development that we should admit to our agricultural and industrial population only those elements that will easily blend.

The author says he would not exclude the Japanese because they are an inferior race. Quite the contrary. We regard them as representative of a culture so old and so highly developed that the chance of exchanging it for ours is too remote for consideration.

Should we confer citizenship on the Japanese, we would have to give that right at the same time to all his race, the 800,000,000 of Asia. When we once open the doors we can never close them.

The Japanese is unpracticed in democracy. Japan is an absolute monarchy and every Japanese in this country is a loyal subject of the Mikado and would still be subject to his will if given the rights of American citizenship. Only about one-ninth of all the males of voting age and one-fortieth of the total population of Japan have the franchise. It would be fair and right for the Japanese propagandists in this country to go back to their own country and liberate their people and secure for them the right of franchise there rather than insisting that the United States give it to them.

Mr. Flowers thinks there is a higher mission for America than the one that would make of her a mere place of residence and economic advantage for all men. All the oppressed and downtrodden of earth could not come to these shores any way. Let us maintain the higher standard of living, of institutions and of morals in the world and give temporary homes and full instruction to those from other lands who would be teachers and emulators of our civilization and wish to carry the light to those millions who can never come to our shores.

Our nation was founded by men who loved personal liberty. It is that ideal that is the soul of our nation, an ideal that has no place among Asiatic people who through countless generations have worshipped their rulers. The two races have no ideals in common.

The author does not plead for war with Japan. It is that he wishes to avoid. He is not bitter. He does not assert the superiority of the white race over the Japanese. He recognizes the inherent differences in the two races.

Everyone who wishes to be truly patriotic should read this book and get the author's point of view although differing with him on this question. It is a vital problem to-day and deserves the earnest consideration of thinking men and women.

THREATS TO RESIST LAWS

The threat of a revolution to overthrow our government comes with poor grace from labor agitators who are always seeking new laws for the improvement of the laboring masses.

It shows that these leaders do not at bottom believe in a government of law and order as our country is based upon, but really advocate the methods of the I. W. W. terrorism.

At a joint assembly of the Colorado legislature to consider the Industrial Relations act, Grant Hamilton as legislative agent of the American Federation of Labor said: "I represent the crystallized sentiment of the American workers on this law and I say they will resist it to the uttermost. We are inspired by the same spirit of revolt that moved our revolutionary forefathers. If this law is not repealed we will have recourse to the same power. We have the courage to revolt and will not be found wanting."

THE GREAT UNANSWERED

Lloyd George has throughout his whole career shown an extraordinary aversion to letter writing, according to Isaac F. Marcosson in Everybody's. "He became known in parliament," says Mr. Marcosson, "as the great unanswered.' He used to say, and still does, that an unanswered letter answers itself in time. This led to the tradition that the only way to get a written reply out of Lloyd George was to inclose two addressed and stamped cards, one bearing the word 'Yes' and the other 'No.' More than once, however, when friends and constituents tried this ruse they goth both cards back in the same envelope!"

ADDRESS PITTSBURGH PRESS CLUB

PITTSBURGH, March 15. — Ambassador Sato arrived here from Washington to-day to attend the banquet of the Pittsburgh Press Club, at which he will be the guest of honor. Whether the Japanese diplomat will touch upon Japanese-American relations is not known.

Sir Gilbert Parker, the Canadian novelist, Roy W. Howard, president of the United Press, and Senator Warren Harding have accepted invitations to deliver after-dinner speeches. About 650 are expected to attend the dinner.

It's an awful thing to have the kind of patriotism that has to be taken out and dusted whenever an emergency arises.—Baltimore Sun.

HIT BY HIGH COST OF LIVING

OSSINING, N. Y., March 15—Sing Sing prisoners to-day are feeling the effects of the high cost of living. In the past, potatoes and onions were a regular part of the daily menu. Now, however, the chef is feeding the inmates rice and macaroni in place of these high priced foods, in order to reduce the cost of feeding the 1500 prisoners. Instructions have also been issued forbidding the men receiving bread at any time of the day outside of the specified meal hours.

NOT HER JOB

He was a young subaltern. One evening the Sister had just finished making him comfortable for the night, and before going off duty asked: "Is there anything I can do for you before I leave?"

Dear little Two Stars replied: "Well, yes! I should like very much to be kissed good-night."

Sister rustled to the door. "Just wait till I call the orderly," she said. "He does all the rough work here."—London Opinion.

BROKE EVEN

"While I was watching the ticker some of my stock went up twenty points."

"Then you made a lot of money?"

"No. I came out about even. You see, my wife was at the milliner's at the same time."—The Lamb.

THE HOMELIKE CHURCH

Sunday morning's sermon at the Christian church by Brother Cole on "The Call for Harvest Hands," was deeply interesting. He read for the Scripture lesson the account in the fourth chapter of John's gospel of Jesus and the Samaritan woman. The closing verse of the reading was his text, "Say ye there are yet four months to the harvest? Lift up your eyes and behold the fields already white to the harvest." The speaker said that Jesus was the true missionary and that we should study his methods. He put himself on the same plane with his hearer, he disregarded his own wants in ministering to her and he told her exactly what she must do. The conclusion was that we must all do as he did, be missionaries every day and reflect his life in ours. That the harvest fields are white and awaiting our efforts. We need not look to the foreign field, to distant cities in our our own land, to other places in California, but right here in Glendale can we find harvest fields white and awaiting our efforts.

In the evening "The Basis for Unity" was discussed, the speaker prefacing by stating that the restoration movement, of which we are a part, was born solely for the purpose of uniting all Christendom in one fold, as Christ prayed for. The basis of unity is the Bible and it alone. With a Bible name for our church, with Christ as our creed, the Bible as our sole rule of faith and practice and a resolve to do nothing not sanctioned by its teachings, we can all unite and then the world will know we are His disciples because we love one another.

KENSINGTON CLUB ANNIVERSARY

The Kensington Thimble club, which is auxiliary to N. P. Banks Woman's Relief Corps, celebrated the third anniversary of its organization Wednesday with a splendid chicken dinner at G. A. R. hall. The decorations were all suggestive of St. Patrick's day and there was a large attendance of members to enjoy the good things provided under the direction of the table committee. The afternoon was spent as usual in needlework and social conversation. New officers were elected, Mrs. Tina Hammond being chosen president and Mrs. Samuel Pollock secretary.

GLENDALIANS WIDE AWAKE

The Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will meet tomorrow, Friday, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Kinney, 1223 West Seventh street, when plans will be completed for the Colonial tea to be given on April 27 and the different committees appointed. All the members are requested to be present.

SPRING

Hark! the Hours are softly calling,
Bidding Spring arise,
She must spread broad showers of daisies
Each day more and more.
In each hedgerow she must hasten
Cowslips sweet to set;
Primroses in rich profusion,
With bright Dewdrops wet.
And under every leaf, in shadow.
Hide a Violet.
Every tree within the forest
Must be decked anew
And the tender buds of promise
Should be peeping through,
Folded deep and almost hidden,
Leaf by leaf beside,
What will make the Summer's glory
And the Autumn's pride.
She must weave the loveliest carpets,
Chequered sun and shade,
Every wood must have such pathways,
Laid in every glade;
She must hang laburnum branches
On each arched bough;
And the white and purple Lilac
Should be waving now;
She must breathe and cold winds vanish
At her breath away;
And then load the air around her
With the scent of May!
Listen then, O Spring, nor linger
On thy charmed way;
Have pity on thy prisoned flowers
Wearying for the day.

SALMON CROQUETTES

Salmon croquettes can easily be made of canned salmon. Remove bits of skin and bones and shred the salmon into small pieces. Beat 2 eggs until very light, mix with the salmon and stir in 1 shredded wheat biscuit crumbled fine. Add milk enough to moisten sufficiently and mold into small pear-shaped croquettes. Roll in shredded wheat crumbs. Sometimes a piece of macaroni is stuck into the narrow end, after the croquettes are fried, making them look like a lollypop.

There is no credit for keeping in the right road, when there's barbed wire fences on both sides.

The Methodist church at Covina burned to the ground Saturday night. This is the second Methodist church in the Pasadena district destroyed by fire since January 1, a church at San Bernardino having burned a few weeks ago.

The Nebraska state society of Southern California will hold its annual winter picnic in Sycamore grove, Los Angeles, on March 24. The program will include music, choruses, addresses and athletic sports. All former Nebraskans and their friends are invited to enjoy the day's outing.

Miss Ianthe Densmore, public affairs chairman of industrial and social conditions of the Friday Morning club of Los Angeles, is attending the legislature in Sacramento as the representative of the Juvenile Protective association and the Friday Morning club to secure amendments to the Street Trades clause of the Child Labor law and other juvenile legislation.

Secretary of Agriculture Houston has been invited by State Horticultural Commissioner Hecke to attend the big fruit growers' convention to be held in Riverside June 4 to 9. Secretary Houston is promised a leading place on the program, and the subject suggested for him is "The Influence of the United States Department of Agriculture in the Upbuilding of California."

John B. Sexton, former mayor of Alhambra, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon, going to his office as usual on Saturday morning. Returning to Alhambra about noon, he went to a room in the Alhambra hotel to rest instead of going to his home. At 5:30 the proprietor of the hotel went to the room and found Mr. Sexton dead. Death was due to acute dilation of the heart. The deceased was 63 years old and had served a term on the Alhambra city council, being mayor of the city when the commission form of government went into effect a year ago last June.

UNFAIR TO GLENDALE

Editor The Evening News, Glendale: Dear Sir—A notice in the Los Angeles Tribune this morning surprised me: "Glendale Puzzled." It referred to the C. E. convention and said that "Glendale hosts were worrying over accommodations for their guests."

Glendale invited them, worked hard to get them, now let her entertain them royally so that 3000 young people will go away wishing they lived here.

I am not a member of the Christian Endeavor society. I wish I were, but I can see how this kind of hospitality can be labeled.

Aside from everything else it is not good business.

A real estate dealer will show considerable energy in trying to draw an excursion of 50, 100 or possibly 200, furnishing meals and transportation. Here you have an excursion of 3000 paying their own transportation and as hosts all we offer is room and board for two days and two nights.

That notice in the Tribune may have hurt Glendale and the convention more than we know, which is not fair to the big spirited and beautiful Glendale.

VALUE OF BIRDS

Every legislative year some one introduces one or more bills which aim to take protection from some of our beneficial non-game birds. It is quite evident that these Legislators, and the people they represent, are ignorant of the scientific investigations which have for many years been carried on by our government and more recently by our state, regarding these birds. It is equally evident that they do not know that the economic value of these birds has been fully established. That though they sometimes do harm, for the greater part of the year, and through the greater part of the State, they do much more good than harm.

U. S. Government Bulletin 34 says of California birds: "Few birds are always and everywhere so seriously destructive that their extermination can be urged on sound economic principles. Only four of the species common in California can be regarded as of doubtful utility. These are the Linnet, California Jay, Stellar Jay, and Redbreasted Sapsucker. When the known methods of protecting fruit have been exhausted or can not be employed profitably, then a reasonable reduction of the numbers of the offending birds is permissable. But the more the food habits of birds are studied the more evident is the fact that with a normal distribution of species and fair supply of natural food, the damage to agricultural products by birds is small compared with the benefit.

"A reasonable way of viewing the relation of birds to the farmer is to consider birds as servants, employed to destroy weeds and insects. In return for this service they should be protected, and such as need it should receive a fair equivalent in the shape of fruit and small grain. Nothing can be more certain than that, except in a few cases, any farmer who is willing to pay the toll collected by birds for actual services rendered will be vastly benefited. In the long run, no part of the capital invested in farm or orchard is more certain to pay big interest than the small sum required for the care and protection of birds."

AN AMERICAN

An American is one
Who not only shouts "Old Glory!" but feels it;
Who pursues a practical, not a passive, democracy;
Who not only likes to thrive with his country, but is ready to die for it;
Who would not barter its tiniest blade of grass for the wealth of a universe;
Who respects its institutions, who does not deride them;
Who has the courage of his convictions, not the acquiescence of his expediency;
Who believes in principle, not the stultification of it;
Who can be generously sympathetic without being patronizing;
Who rock the cradle with one hand and balances his books with the other;
Who is childlike with you in success, and staunch in adversity;
Who loves one woman and honors all;
Who is mild with the simple, but a rock with the sophisticated;
Who is square with himself, and lenient toward ignorance;
Who is fair to labor, and labors fairly;
Who is humble in his achievement, and generous with his praise;
Who can be a stalwart champion as well as an innocent bystander;
Who believes in adequate preparedness, and will cheerfully dig up his share when the bills fall due;
Who observes the intent, not the letter of the law;
Who can be gallant to a scrubwoman, and indifferent to the haughty;
Who is as fastidious about his moral shirt cuffs as his laundered linen;
Who eats his own embalmed beef, and forwards the better cuts to those who serve his country;
Who tries to be kin to every race and color and creed, because he has no wish to draw distinctions among those who will serve him in the pinch.

THE PRESIDENT SIGNS THE LEPROSARIUM BILL

President Wilson has signed the bill establishing a national leprosarium under the United States public health service, and appropriating $250,000 for the purpose. Health officers and boards of supervisors, to say nothing of the lepers, will be glad to learn that the known lepers of the United States will soon be gathered into a colony where they will be under scientific treatment and where there can be an approach to normal companionship and community life. The state board of health wishes to thank the California members of congress who helped make the long-needed leprosarium possible.

"FEAR OF STARVATION" TREATED AS A DISEASE

(By United Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 18.—(By Mail).—An article is being widely printed in Germany dealing with the control of a new "war disease" that German doctors have to combat. Having met and defeated the old war diseases, cholera, typhus, spotted fever and smallpox, they now face "psychological starvation."

"This disease," says the article, "is of a much more difficult character, as it is mental and is quickly spread from one sufferer to another. It is found, strangely enough, in peaceful countrysides where war's alarms have not penetrated.

"It is first a fear of starvation and out of this rises a sort of psychological hunger. This confusion of ideas is some times exciting, some times crippling, and robs one of courage and sense.

"Fear of starving will cause many to make luxurious use of available supplies, to use all sorts of tricks in order to attempt to cover themselves with a reserve layer of fat for times of still greater scarcity.

"In thousands of letters, mostly written by women, the writers speak of nothing else but the fear of ultimate starvation."

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Rest spoils many a man who was willing to work.

A skeptic is a man who doubts some of his own stories.

Lambs oft rush into Wall street where old sheep fear to tread.

Fortunately there is seldom any need of brains in a love affair.

Oh, Liberty, what a lot of divorces are applied for in thy name!

Never kick a dog to which you have not been properly introduced.

A dog's bark may be worse than his bite, but give us the bark, please, just the same.

It's a fortunate thing for some men that their ancestors left them an honored name.

The man who considers himself a brick never boasts of being a common clay specimen.

It sometimes happens that the woman who is disappointed in love isn't disappointed in marriage.

A man must be in business with another man or married to a woman in order to discover that he doesn't know them.

When a man is found guilty of love in the first degree he should not kick if he and his accomplice are given a life sentence.

GERMAN BARBERS TO BACK WILSON

NEW YORK, March 15—The German proprietor of a string of barber shops here to-day sent a circular letter to all his foreign born employees urging them to "stand behind the President, whatever decision he may make." The writer is a native of Germany who has made all he has in the United States.

"You, or your fathers before you," says the letter, "came to this country seeking social and political liberty. That you should retain in your hearts the love of your Fatherland is but natural. But now that the country of our adoption is itself threatened by the danger of war in the defense of the honor and integrity of its people and its institutions, there is no allegiance which can be yours save the single, absolute and unadulterated allegiance to America.

"Stand behind her as one man in her hour of crisis, even though you be brought into conflict with your own blood and bone."

WHY DO YOU WORRY?

The worries of today are the jokes of tomorrow, remarks the Outlook. The worries of yesterday are the the jokes of today.

Is it not often so? If you think of it at all, does not the fact that you were two months behind in your rent a year arouse in you feelings more akin to amusement or of satisfaction with the improved present than of concern? And in 1917 is not the broken heart of 1907 more an object of whimsical reminiscence than of painful recollection? Then why worry? Why indeed? Hear the reasons stated by the United States Public Health Service why you should not worry:

"The birds build nests for the protection of their young against the weather; the foxes dig holes for security against foes; the squirrels lay in stores of nuts against the coming of winter; and dogs bury bones against the day when bones will be scarce. These are the manifestations of a normal protective instinct rising from an experience of many, many generations. So far as is known, though, no bird ever tried to build more nests than his neighbor; no fox ever fretted because he only had one hole in which to hide; no squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay by enough nuts for two winters instead of for one; and no dog ever lost sleep over the fact that he didn't have enough bones laid aside to provide for his declining years.

"This protective instinct is also present in the human mind, and when properly directed is a great source of prosperity both to the individual and the nation. In order for man to store up and lay by, to gain advancement either in honor or material things, it is necessary that he take some forethought of the morrow, but just so soon as he carries this beyond the normal point the mental process becomes an exaggerated and abnormal one. The normal protective instinct is stimulated by a normal fear of those events which are reasonably sure to happen in the future unless means are adopted against them. The moment that this fear becomes abnormal or exaggerated it over-stimulates this protective instinct, and to no good purpose because it results in worry. This worry continues long after the necessity for the normal stimulus of fear has passed, with the result that there is an impairment in mental power and a dissipation of the nervous forces. In other words, the mental engine has been 'running idle' and at the same time delivering no propulsive power. In fact, worry is an abnormal state.

"Not all worry is preventable, but for the most part it can be avoided. Most of our fears are never realized, and, as a rule, if we meet our troubles day by day as they come without worrying about them before they arrive or fretting over them after they have passed, we will find that we have the strength to rise above them. Worry undermines the health to a certain extent. It really weakens the mental forces by tiring them out by doing nothing. Usually the relief from worry rests with the victim of this unhappy habit himself, but sometimes the real causes are not the ones which seem to explain the condition, and we must go deep into our lives or have the assistance of those who are skilled in unraveling mental processes.

"The best antidote for worry is a change of mental occupation, a getting away from the scenes which provoke worry, exercise in the open air, a good book, a pleasant recreation, or a temporary change of occupation. As a matter of mental health every sufferer from this unfortunate condition owes it to himself to discover some simple means of getting away from this habit which is destructive to health and peace of mind alike."

HONORS FOR POTATOES

There never was a time in all its comparatively short history when the potato had so much honor thrust upon it as at present. In many countries, widely separated, its yield and its prices are subjects of eager discussion. And yet it is only since the beginning of last century that its value as a food product has been recognized. For nearly 200 years after Sir Walter Raleigh introduced it into England the potato was subjected to a "cold neglect" and failed to obtain any serious recognition of its many virtues.

THE MILKMAN'S WORRIES

No longer does the up-to-date milkman have to fear an outbreak of typhoid or scarlet fever or other milk borne disease among his customers. No longer does he worry lest he wake up in the morning and find his customers dangerously sick and his business ruined. Even high grade dairies producing a comparatively clean milk have at times in the past been responsible for outbreaks of septic sore throat or infantile diarrhoea. The human element brought an ever-present danger into the dairy business. The dairyman complained that he could not get college professors and bacterologists to do his milking. Even if he could, we should still prefer to pin our faith to pasteurization of the supply just before it is put into sterile bottles and after it is out of the reach of human fingers. Times have changed, and the milkman and his customers have less to worry about. A large part of all the milk now sold in the larger cities is made safe by pasteurization. In California cities having an approved inspecting department no milk can be sold without being pasteurized unless it is of higher quality than "Grade B" milk. There is no real reason why market milk should not be as reliable and as safe as bread.

FIRST LARGE DECREASE IN TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE

There has at last been a definite decrease in California's high death rate from tuberculosis. Owing largely to the migration of the tuberculous from other states, California has had the unenviable record of having the highest tuberculosis death rate for white persons of any state in the United States registration area. For years our tuberculosis death rate has been around 200 per 100,000 people, the total number of annual deaths from this one disease being over 5000. In 1915 the rate was 194.5 per 100,000 population, and last year (1916) the rate was reduced to 178.5. This fall of 16 points means that there were 297 fewer deaths than in the previous year—a remarkable improvement. This one year's reduction in the tuberculosis death rate represents the prevention of over twice as many deaths as were caused by typhoid fever in the entire state in 1916. Heretofore, results in tuberculosis work in California could be shown only in the welfare of individuals or single communities. Now the effect is shown in the cold statistics of the state as a whole. This first decisive success will spur anti-tuberculosis organizations and public health officials to renew with increased vigor their attack on the most destructive of all preventable diseases—tuberculosis.

VISITOR WRITES ON ORANGE

(From El Monte Gazette)

Lee M. Bonheim who, with Mrs. Bonheim, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Frazakerley in this city the past few weeks, is so delighted with California that he is writing rhyme to relieve his exuberance of joy in being in this beautiful land of sunshine and flowers, of golden fruit and heaven's blue. Mr. Bonheim is a prominent citizen of his home city and state, Chicago Illinois. Recently he sent a box of oranges to his home lodge of Masons, and also created the verses printed below which he sent along too:

ORANGEADE

California is a wonder,
It surely can't be beat;
You can tell a Californian
By the oranges he eats.

They have oranges for breakfast;
They have oranges for lunch;
They have oranges for supper;
They eat them by the bunch.

They eat oranges in the sunshine;
They eat them in the shade;
And if they do not like them raw,
They eat the marmalade.

They eat oranges in the springtime,
And in the summer heat.
They eat them when they're sour,
They eat them when they're sweet.

They name the cities Orange;
The streets and avenues, too,
The only thing's not orange
Is the heaven, which is blue.

They have oranges and oranges,
And then some oranges more;
They bring them thro' the window,
And thro' the big front door.

They haul them in the flivers,
They haul them in a Pierce;
They way they haul in oranges,
Is surely something fierce.

The mountains and the meadows
Yield oranges galore;
So if these are not rhymes enough
I'l try and send some more.

—Lee M. Bonheim.
